Rustenburg man's family trapped in the Ukraine

A Rustenburg man, Roan Lindsey and his family have trekked more than 41 500 kilometers across Europe, Hungary, Germany, Romania, the Czech Republic and the Ukraine in an attempt to get his wife Marta and her three-year-old son (Martan) to safety in South Africa after they have fled the war-torn Ukraine. Despite their travels and thousands being spent, South African immigration authorities in Johannesburg have refused the mother and her son safe entry into South Africa because of the fact that the child's visa was endorsed on his mother's passport after administrative processes in the Ukraine have collapsed as a result of the war. Rustenburg man's traumatic journey around the world in 35 days to bring his family home

RUSTENBURG HERALD - RUSTENBURG - A Rustenburg man and his family have trekked more than 41 000 km across the Ukraine, eastern Europe, Hungary, Denmark, Germany, the Czech Republic South Africa at a cost of R150 000 in an attempt to get his wife and son safely from the war-torn Ukraine and bring them back home, only to be blocked by South African immigration authorities.

Roan Lindsey met the woman who was soon to be his wife (Marta) in the Ukraine in December 2020. The couple had planned to get married in Marta's home town of Kamianets-Podilskyi in western Ukraine in April 2022. Then all hell broke lose when Russia invaded the Ukraine.

"The couple planned to get a relative visa for her and her son to join him in South Africa and to live together as a family after their wedding."

Roan had no idea of the endless red tape and bureaucratic processes that awaited him and his family. The couple had an appointment with the Ukrainian authorities for her three-year-old son to apply for his passport to travel to South Africa. This was however cancelled as a result of the war but the couple was elated when the Ukrainian authorities confirmed that they would endorse the child in his mother's passport after the wedding and that this would be accepted internationally considering the war.

Roan's world soon turned upside down when war broke out in the Ukraine and he instantly realised that he must return to Ukraine to get his family to safety. Barely a week later Roan was on a plane to Austria which saw him travelling to the airport, flying for hours on end and taking at least two trains to be followed by excessive waiting and layovers. His travels took him from South Africa to Austria and then to Romania where his future wife and son were waiting for him in the town of Sucueva. Because of the war Marta's father has helped his daughter and her son to flee to safety across the Romanian border, where Roan was to meet them. Roan and Marta were advised that Budapest in Hungary would be the best option to apply for the necessary visas for her and her son. They were dropped some 20 km outside Budapest after an 18 hour bus ride for which they had to fork out 240 Euros. At the Embassy in Budapest they were told that all the information required for the visas were in order and that it would be ready in a couple of days. Meanwhile they decided to be married in Copenhagen, Denmark as this was the only country that would officiate the ceremony with the documents the couple had available. The wedding was a rushed affair and then it was back to Budapest to collect their visas and to fly to South Africa. Due to flight delays with the war raging on, endless queues of refugees and suffering people all over, they decided to travel by train which saw them travelling through Denmark, Germany and Prague in the Czech Republic - an 18 hour journey. From here another bus ride would get them back to Budapest where they were told their visas for ready for collection. Finally it was over the couple contemplated.

RUSTENBURG HERALD - RUSTENBURG - A Rustenburg man and his family have trekked more than 41 000 km across the Ukraine, eastern Europe, Hungary, Denmark, Germany, the Czech Republic South Africa at a cost of R150 000 in an attempt to get his wife and son safely from the war-torn Ukraine and bring them back home, only to be blocked by South African immigration authorities.

To their horror they couple arrived in Johannesburg after another 16 hour flight where Marat's visa endorsed on his mother's passport was refused by South African immigration officials because "of the law". Since Marta had no one to assist her in Budapest and Europe, Roan had to accompany her back to Budapest and then Romania from where she and her son had to travel alone back to the Ukraine where she was suppose to "sort out her and Marat's passports and visas before they would be allowed back in South Africa", according to South African officials. Roan returned to South Africa in tears and heartbroken with just as much trouble and effort as before and now has to wait for things to hopefully settle and administrative processes to resume in the Ukraine before they could make another attempt to get her and Marat out of the country and into South Africa safely. Meanwhile the Ukrainian ambassador in South Africa has been trying to persuade the South African government to relax their laws and rules to allow people like Kart and her son into South Africa, especially since the war has continued for the past three months. It is with slight relief that Roan told Rustenburg Herald that the South African Minister of Home Affairs Aaron Motsoaledi was approached and is currently engaged in talks to try to assist the family. Who knows how long they would still have to wait... Roan plans to return to the Ukraine once conditions are somewhat more encouraging but money is an obvious problem since he has barely worked for a period of almost two months. He is hoping that kind-hearted people in Rustenburg and South Africa would assist him and his family with donations to enable him to return to his wife and to finally unite the family in South Africa without fear of deportation or similar. Roan can be contacted on tel 071 682 6963.

Andrea Venter-moord: Uitspraak in Junie

RUSTENBURG HERALD - RUSTENBURG - Daar is 'n leeftyd se herinneringe tussen die mure van Dries Venter se huis in Rustenburg.

Soveel goeie herinneringe van 'n gelukkige, hegte gesin. Maar ook die diepste smart wat 'n ouer se hart kan ken - die dood van 'n kind.

"Andrea was 10 toe ons hier ingetrek het," vertel Dries. Hy, sy vrou, Annatjie en hul twee kinders het vir mekaar geleef. "Kobus was 12 jaar ouer as Andrea en hy was erg oor sy sussie." Dries se stem breek en hy vee die lastige tranen van sy wange af.

Die emosionele stres van die laaste twee weke weeg swaar - maar nou, vir die eerste keer na Andrea se moord in 2011, lyk dit of daar eindelik geregtigheid gaan geskied.

Na verskeie uitstelle, kon die Staat Vrydag (20 Januarie) hul saak sluit en sal regter Ian Cox na alle waarskynlikheid op 13 Junie sê of hy Gerhard Jansen van Vuuren skuldig bevind aan die moord op sy voormalige meisie.

"Natuurlik was dit moeilik om enkele treë van die man af te sit wat my dogter se lewe geneem het - en ook die dood van my vrou veroorsaak het; Annatjie het haar dood getreur oor Andrea. Maar dis belangriker dat hy sy straf deur die hof kry as wat ek 'n paar oomblikke se genot het om my hande aan hom te slaan." Die saak het verlede week in die Palm Ridge landdroshof voorgekom.

Die Verdediging het Vrydag 'nekspertgetui, Dr John Weinkove, geroep om die hof te probeer oortuig dat Jansen van Vuuren ten tye van die voorval onstabiel was en aan 'Tydelike Plofbare Versteuring' (Intermittend Explosive Disorder) gely het. Onder kruisondervraging het dr Weinkove egter erken dat hy nie veel persoonlike ondervinding met TPV het nie - slegs akademies. Hy het ook aan die hof erken dat hy nog nooit voorheen 'n pasiënt met dié toestand gediagnoseer het nie.

Dries het baie lof vir die staatsaanklaer, adv Rolene Barnard en die getuies wat sy geroep het om haar saak teen Jansen van Vuuren te bewys. "Adv Barnard se deeglikheid en haar vasbeslotenheid om vir my kind geregtigheid te kry, is prysenswaardig. Ek kan ook net elke dag dankie sê vir die polisie, en Interpol, wat gesorg het dat die beskuldigde eindelik vasgetrek kon word."

Nadat Jansen van Vuuren in 2011 op die moordtoneel in hechtenis geneem is, het hy in Desember van daardie jaar in die Suid-Gauteng Hoogereghof appéel aangeteken omdat hy deurlopend borg geweier is. Sy appéel het, tot die skok van die ondersoekbeamte en die destydse aanklaer, geslaag. Jansen van Vuuren is vrygelaat en sy verhoor was veronderstel om op 20 Mei 2013 te begin. Op die betrokke dag het hy bloot nie by die hof opgedaag nie en die

Hoogereghof het 'n lasbrief vir sy inhegenisname uitgereik. Jansen van Vuuren is met 'n vervalsde paspoort op 16 Mei 2013 uit Johannesburg weg en het glo met behulp van sy pa Durban toe gery waar hy vanaf die King Shaka Lughawe via Dubai na Brasilië gevlieg het. Die Brasiliaanse overhede is in kennis gestel en in Augustus daardie jaar is hy in hechtenis geneem. Hy is skuldig bevind aan die oortreding van immigrasieregulasies en hy is tronkstraf opgelê. Sodra hy dié vonnis sou voltooi, sou hy aan Suid-Afrika uitgelever word om hier vir Andrea se moord tereg te staan. Maar, toe in 2016, onder verdagte omstandighede, het 'n regter in die nag die tronk waar Jansen van Vuuren aangehou is, besoek en sy vrylating beveel.

Maar toe loop hy gelukkig sy rieme styf in 2020. Dries knik 'n paar keer, al lê tranen vlak in sy oë, glimlag hy. "Dit klink soos 'n cliché, maar dit is regtig asof hierdie verskriklike las wat op my gedruk het, nou weg is. Vir die eerste keer in 11 jaar kan ek vryer asemhaal. Vir die eerste keer na my pragtige dogter se wrede moord kan ek tot 'n mate rustiger slaap."

Retrenchment possible if you refuse vaccine

RUSTENBURG HERALD - RUSTENBURG - Refusing to be vaccinated against Covid 19? You can be retrenched - without a severance package.

The Commission for Conciliation, Mediation and Arbitration (CCMA) has ruled that long-standing precedents mean someone who refused a Covid-19 vaccine can be fairly retrenched without being paid any severance.

In fact, it would not be fair to expect retrenchment pay, the CCMA said.

Baroque Medical, a company that sells specialised medical products, implemented a policy of mandatory Covid-19 vaccinations. An employee refused to comply, citing "medical, personal and religious reasons". She did not substantiate the medical objection, and the CCMA rejected her personal and religious reasons. The CCMA accepted the company's basis for demanding vaccinations from staff, saying it dealt with hospitals and medical practitioners. "Accordingly, to safeguard its own employees and ensure that the operations of the employer are not severely affected by absences as a result of staff contracting the Covid-19 virus, and that those entities and individuals that had contact with staff members of the employer are adequately protected, it embarked on a risk assessment which made it apparent that a mandatory vaccination policy had to be imposed."

The employee who refused to be vaccinated did not challenge that policy, or the procedural fairness of her dismissal. But the process had not been substantially fair, she said, because alternatives to retrenchment were not properly considered. Her company countered that it had considered letting her work from home, but she couldn't do her job without being at the office – and any other job in the company would still come with the requirement for vaccination. An employee does not have to be offered a different post altogether before being retrenched, the CCMA said, but could by long-standing precedent be offered the same position under different conditions. In this case, it held, the company's operational circumstances changed. In response, it offered the employee her job with a change of conditions: she had to be vaccinated. She refused, without good reason. And that means she falls under retrenchment rules for those who unreasonably refuse alternative employment – and so are not entitled to severance pay.

In the Baroque case, the CCMA said, it would be grossly unfair to expect it to pay severance.

Prominente hoërskool in spervuur na beweerde Nazi-saluut onder leerders

RUSTENBURG HERALD - RUSTENBURG - Die Noordwes Onderwysdepartement het Dinsdag die Hoërskool Rustenburg besoek nadat leerlinge na bewering die Nazi-saluut in 'n TikTok-video gedoen het.

Na wat verneem word, word vier leerlinge ondersoek na aanleiding van die gewraakte teken met die sing van 'n Duitse lied wat uit die Tweede Wêrldoorlog dateer.

(Klik hier op jou elektroniese toestel of gaan na <https://bit.ly/hrtbsaluuomna'nvideogreepvandievooraltekyk>).

Die provinsiale woordvoerder van die Onderwysdepartement, Elias Malindi, het gesê meer inligting sal bekend gemaak word, nadat die ondersoek afgehandel is. In 'n verklaring het die beheerliggaam van Hoërskool Rustenburg gesê dit sal optree teen leerders wat die Nazi-saluut gedoen het. "Daadwerklike en verantwoordbare stappe sal geneem word teen leerders van die skool wat die saluut gedoen het. Die beheerliggaam van die Hoërskool Rustenburg beskou die voorval in 'n uiters ernstige lig," sê Bernhard Visser, beheerliggaamvoorsitter, in 'n verklaring.

"Leerders het blybaar aan 'n karaokekompetisie by die skool deelgeneem toe die voorval plaasgevind het en 'n video-opname daarvan doen nou ook die ronde," sê Visser verder.

Visser sê daar is dadelik opgetree nadat die voorval onder die aandag van die beheerliggaam gekom het. "n Dissiplinêre ondersoek is reeds onderweg. Die leerders is geïdentifiseer en hul ouers is ook reeds ingelig." Die beheerliggaam sal met die Noordwes Ondewysdepartement konsulteer in terme van die ondersoek en daaropvolgende besluite. "Ons is nie net bekommerd oor die skade aan die skool se reputasie nie, maar ook oor die gebrek aan bewusheid rondom sosiale kwessies wat hierdie aan die lig gekom het."

"Die Hoërskool Rustenburg bied reeds vir die afgelope eeu uitmuntende onderrig aan jong Suid-Afrikaners.

Die grondslag hiervan is respek. Gehalte-onderrig kan slegs plaasvind in 'n omgewing waar respek vir ander die ruimte skep vir elkeen om te groei en hul potensiaal te verwesenlik," het Visser gesê.

Owners of second-hand dealerships were sensitised to not buy stolen property.

Second-hand goods campaign held in Swartruggens

RUSTENBURG HERALD - SWARTRUGGENS - On Wednesday (18 May), Swartruggens police, under the command of the Station Commander, Lt Col Mfuloane, participated in a Second-Hand Goods Campaign.

The campaign was necessitated due to a high number of House Breaking and Theft cases reported in the Swartruggens area. The members consisted of the Vispol Commander, Capt Nkuna, the DPO officials WO Le Roux and Sgt Maruping, and members from Crime Prevention. They visited the Taxi rank and numerous Second-Hand Goods Dealers around Swartruggens and did compliance inspections according to the Second-Hand Goods Act (Act No. 6 of 2009).

During the activities, the Vispol Commander addressed the community at the taxi rank and requested them to refrain from buying stolen property as they can fall in the trap of thieves that are stealing property and selling it very cheap. They were also made aware that they might be arrested, if stolen property is found in their possession. He further requested the community to get involved in their Neighbourhood Watch and to be whistle blowers when crime is committed. Crime Prevention pamphlets were handed out to commuters. As part of another leg of the operation numerous second-hand goods dealerships were visited and owners were sensitised to not buy stolen property. They were further educated to report suspicious persons immediately to the police and that all property sold to them, must be captured in their registers, accompanied by a copy of the seller's Identity Document as stipulated in the Second-Hand Goods Act. During the campaign persons and vehicles were also stopped and searched.

D-day at Triple J Q4 imminent

RUSTENBURG HERALD - RUSTENBURG - Nou nog net 'n rapsie meer as 'n week en Rustenburgse motoriste in die stad se tradisionele sakegebied kan groot voordeel en veral gerief put uit die opening van 'n splinternuwe vulstasie wat aanstaande Vrydag, 3 Junie sy deure open en sy brandstofpompe aanskakel.

Veral inwoners van hierdie area glimlag tans breed oor die vooruitsig van 'n OK Express "convenience store" by dié nuwe vulstasie op die hoek van Oliver Tambo en Tuinstraat Rustenburg. Jacques Swart, Donavan Johnston en Gail du Randt is dit eens dat Triple J Q4 nie sommer net nog 'n vulstasie op die hoek gaan wees nie - "ons gaan baie hard daaraan werk om uitstekende en vriendelike diens, uithalerprodukte en aangename verbruikersomgewing aan ons kliënte te bied. Daarom dat die openingsdag op 3 Junie beloof om 'n onvergetlike dag te wees waartydens ons sommer van dag een af skouer aan die wiel gaan sit om nuwe vrienksapsbande en 'n uitgebreide kliëntenetwerk te skep. Selfs verbruikers wat vir jare reeds kliënte van Rustenburg se talle vulstasies is, word spesiaal genooi om hier te kom inloer, te kom ondersoek instel en dalk te besluit om van vulstasie te verander. Selfs te midde van dosyne kompeteterende vulstasies in Rustenburg word die publiek maar al te dikwels gefrustreerdeur lang toue mense by die 24 uur geriflikheidswinkel, om van die brandstof-ryvlak nie eens te praat nie. Ons gaan ons beste te doen deur dit nie as vanselfsprekend te aanvaar dat kliënte by ons vulstasie sal aandoen net omdat hulle honger of dors is of omdat hulle tog wel brandstof moet ingooi nie. Daarbenewens sien ons ook uit om 'n splinternuwe handelsmerk ("brand") aan plaaslike verbruikers bekend te stel. Veral Donavan is baie opgewone oor die nuwe Q4-brandstofhandelsmerk wat dit vir die Triple J-span moontlik sal maak om nie net 'n uitstekende produk nie, maar ook vriendelike, flinke diens aan ons kliënte te bied. Maar "wie en wat" is die Q4-handelsmerk en waar kom dit vandaan wou ons weet...

Says Donavan Johnston: "Q4 was founded in 2005 by Francois du Preez and Dreyer van Niekerk and is the leading non-refining wholesaler of petroleum products in the country. Since our inception, Q4 has grown into one of the front-runners within an exceptionally competitive petroleum market. Q4 currently has 22 retail outlets in Gauteng, North West, Limpopo, the Free State and Western Cape and delivers in excess of 45 million liters of top quality petroleum products per month. "Our fuel is drawn directly from the refineries of Sasol, Total, Engen, Shell and Chevron and delivered to clients and Q4 retail outlets with a modern fleet of 80 Mercedes Benz Actros trucks with GRW tankers".

Donavan Johnston, Gail du Randt en Jacques Swart van Triple J Q4-vulstasie op die hoek van Oliver Tambo- en Tuinstraat Rustenburg wat met groot verwagtinge uitsien na die vulstasie se amptelike opening op Vrydag, 3 Junie. Hou gerus Rustenburg Herald en Bonus dop vir al die jongste verwikkelinge.

Maar ons ligging op die grens van die Rustenburg se tradisionele sentrale sakegebied is een van die faktore wat verzeker dat ons in die binnebaan is sover dit die uiters kompeteterende plaaslike brandstofmark betref, aldus Swart. Ons is baie opgewone oor die nuwe Q4-handelsmerk en ons opening gaan 'n onvergetlike gebeurtenis wees met kunstenaars, sporthelde, motorfietswaaghalse en talle pryse/produkte wat weggegee gaan word. "Hou gerus volgende week se Rustenburg Herald en Bonus dop vir meer besonderhede oor wat alles op die openingsdag se spyskaart is".

We are currently in the home stretch of adding the finishing touches and making sure that everything and everyone are in place for the opening day on 3 June", adds Gail du Randt. Of course this will be the ideal opportunity to come and fill up and perhaps walk away with a valuable prize? Remember to bring the whole family and friends! Keep watching Rustenburg Herald and Bonus!

Brauhaus Afrika bekroon met drié pryse by internasionale bierkompetisie

RUSTENBURG HERALD - RUSTENBURG - Brauhaus Afrika - Rustenburg se eie brouerei wat al vir meer as tien jaar tradisionele Duitse bier brou, is pas vereer met drie medaljes tydens die African Beer Cup toekenning.

Broumeester Imke Pape (foto regs) het op 14 Mei die pryse in ontvang geneem by die glansgeleentheid by die Jack Black's Brewing Company in Kaapstad.

Beide die Dunkel en Märzen-bier het elk 'n silwer medalje ontvang in hul kategorieë, met die baie gewilde Farmers Lager wat 'n brons medalje ontvang het in sy klas. Dit is die derde agtereenvolgende jaar dat die Brauhaus pryse by die kompetisie ontvang. Beoordelaars uit 16 verskillende lande het die 251 inskrywings geproe en punte is toegeken. Dit word gedoen volgens die Beer Judge Certification Program se riglyne, wat verzekер dat biere volgens hulle broustyl geklas word en nie volgens persoonlike voorkeur nie. Die Africa Beer Cup is nie beperk tot sogenaamde craft-biere nie, maar sluit ook inskrywings van kommersiële biere van regoor Afrika in. Brauhaus Afrika bied egter meer as net wêreldklasbier. Die restaurant met sy pragtige uitsig oor die Magaliesberg is baie gewild onder Rustenburgers en besoekers van Gauteng. Vir enige navrae, maak gerus kontak met Christian Schlotfeldt by 083 8005 410 of stuur 'n e-pos na chris@brau.co.za

The truth behind the aggressive clean-up operation at Paul Bodenstein Park and other areas to follow

BODENSTEIN PARK ON ITS WAY TO FORMER GLORY

RUSTENBURG HERALD - RUSTENBURG - "Where there is a will, there is a way", the well-known expression goes.

Thanks to two local businessmen this proved to be true and yielded almost unimaginable results when people from all walks of life joined efforts to put their backs into a deserving project. Some months ago Michael Maritz Sr of CrossFit ACA and Rudolf Marx of Mini Build in Rustenburg met for a discussion which saw Rustenburg and the Paul Bodenstein Park in particular, changing "shape" in a relatively short period of time. The idea was to get the local community, business sector and the Rustenburg Municipality involved to launch a community clean-up initiative to restore the once beautiful city of Rustenburg to its former glory.

From this initiative a campaign was launched and a Facebook group "Make Rustenburg Great Again" was established. The project kicked off on Saturday, 30 April, with a clean-up at the notorious Fatima Bhayat and Bosch Street intersection. This first of several clean-up and restoration "outings" took a group of only six men a lengthy five hours to complete.

The team of workers represented Mini Build, One Mix Concrete and Lesaka Crushers. To the group's astonishment the campaign soon spread like wildfire and help was offered from people and entities everywhere. On Saturday, 6 May, it was the turn of the infamous Paul Bodenstein Park's Phase One clean-up project.

Local businesses, residents and the local municipality took hands and joined efforts to achieve what was thought to be almost impossible not too long ago. "Surprisingly this was a big, yet totally unexpected success", "MRGA" project manager, Michael Maritz Sr said at the end of the day. "Even so, this was not the end of our work - far from it in fact" as the Bodenstein Park project is still continuing every Saturday morning between 07:00 and 13:00. Saturday, 20 May, of the past weekend marked the third consecutive Saturday of back-breaking work since the project was conceived.

In this operation we took to task in an effort to restore the Paul Bodenstein Park to the iconic landmark it used to be. Although the day started off in freezing temperatures and soft rain from time to time, the MRGA team stuck to its guns and remarkable progress was made.

"Fortunately better weather set in only two hours into our mission and we were able to finish off on a high note", Maritz said. In addition to continuously organising and scouting for local sponsors and partners, Maritz says he was extremely proud to reflect on the progress made by a team of limited manpower "which saw us transforming the condition of the park in just over 20 hours.

There is no question about the fact that currently, the Bodenstein Park looks entirely different as opposed to the state of the park in recent memory.

What seemed to be a welcome reward for the team's commitment was when Maritz discovered a beautiful piece of rock art by the late Mr Leo Theron in 1965. Unfortunately this masterpiece was vandalised with graffiti some years ago, however, the MRGA team was not discouraged and succeeded to clean and restore the piece.

"It goes without saying that we have big plans for the Bodenstein Park and everyone involved is highly motivated. MRGA will not rest until the park has been restored to a place where families and friends happily meet for whatever occasion - even if only to restore the beauty and tranquility of the park.

Naturally, putting in this much effort and time will be justified by the fact that after completion of the project, the park will most definitely not be a "free for all" area in the future. It was agreed by all parties involved that much more effective and stringent control as to what will be permitted in the park, will be introduced", Maritz said. MRGA will be assisted in this by the general public, local law enforcement and the Rustenburg Municipality.

Likewise, notice boards and dustbins will be put up and parking areas as bays will be clearly marked. Vehicles as a matter of principle will not be allowed in the park at all as children should be allowed to run about and play freely and safely. "MRGA wants to emphasize that we are not interested in politics but that our first and only goal is to restore the Bodenstein Park to its former glory and to safeguard the area as an asset for future generations, hence working very closely with the office of the Executive Mayor - Sheila Mabale-Huma, the Municipal Manager - Mr Victor Makona and relevant RLM directorates.

Maritz wishes to thank all parties and businesses involved in the past weekend's project for their contribution and hard work. "We are super proud of each and everyone" says Michael. "A huge task is still ahead of us, but we are positive that with the help and support from our local businesses, RLM and residents we as a unit will conquer.

Anyone that wants to be part of the project is invited to contact Michael Maritz Sr on 0828259500 for more information.

Royal Bafokeng and Impala Rustenburg partner to deliver sport in schools

RUSTENBURG HERALD - PHOKENG

- Royal Bafokeng Sports and Impala Rustenburg are proud to announce their partnership to support the Metshameko Program in a one-year initiative aimed at developing skills and a lifelong love of sport in both primary and high school learners in the schools situated around the Impala operation and in the broader Rustenburg community.

The Metshameko Program, a sustainable implementation plan for sports, which is in its sixth year of operation, has been expanded to include more schools. The programme is expected to impact over 1 950 children involved in football and netball in the U/13 and U/17 divisions. Commenting on the Royal Bafokeng's support of the initiative, Eugene Thipe, head of Royal Bafokeng Sports, said they were delighted to partner with Impala in supporting the Metshameko Program.

"It is these kinds of partnerships and in the spirit of working together that will ensure our children realise their full potential. The promotion of sport at school plays an important role in creating motivation and commitment to lifelong participation. Evidence exists that physical sports activity can benefit education. It is acknowledged that sport provides school children with life skills in a way that is unsurpassed by any other activity," Thipe said.

Mark Munroe, CE of Impala Rustenburg said investment in sport is deeply entrenched at Impala.

"Within our internal family of staff, we have been supporting teams and individuals for over 15 years. At the same time, we support 33 primary and secondary schools in the communities adjacent to the operation through various projects. We are grateful to the Metshameko Program for this opportunity to partner with Royal Bafokeng and to marry our belief in the power of sport with our long-established initiatives aimed at developing the youth in our local communities," Munroe said.

A total of 42 primary schools and 23 secondary schools are participating in the season-long programme, which commemorated its official launch on 14 May 2022 with the start of the League matches.

Glencore Ferroalloys launches 'Women in Mining' structure

RUSTENBURG HERALD - RUSTENBURG - According to the Minerals Council of South Africa, South African women have played a key role in above-ground mining positions prior to them being legally allowed to work underground in 1996. Women have gradually become formal participants in all aspects of the industry.

They have come up against challenges and restrictions and over the years, the industry has become better at identifying and dealing with these issues and creating more inclusive conditions for women in the workplace. On Friday (13 May), Glencore Ferroalloys officially launched its Women in Mining (WiM) structure which is aimed at driving women related developmental programmes in line with the Department of Mineral Resources and Energy (DMRE) and Minerals Council. This also provides the opportunity for women to be further recognised as integral participants in the success of the organisation. The launch was held in Rustenburg and was attended by representatives from Glencore's different operations who all gathered to celebrate the incredible milestone. Women in Mining Tripartite Forum Chairperson (WIMRTF) Jacqueline Dibetsoe, and motivational speaker Molebogeng Mogashoa from TauSadi Mining and Engineering were also in attendance.

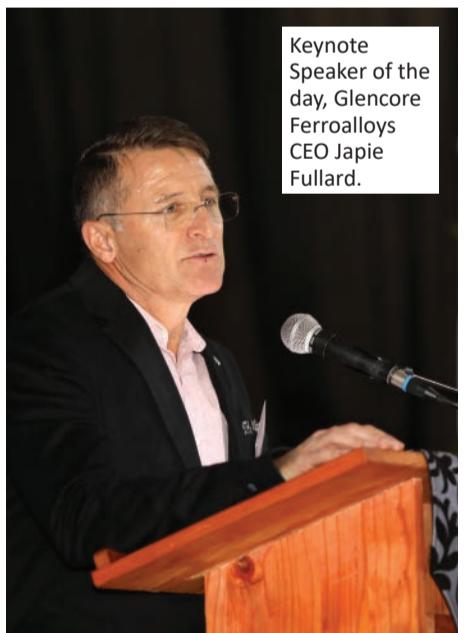

CEO of Glencore Ferroalloys, Japie Fullard said that the organisation's key driver is the Home Away From Home culture that resonates with the needs of the female employees and ensures that female employees find the workplace suitable and desirable to work in.

"It is with great pride to officially launch our Women in Mining Alloys structure. Having such a structure in place is not a tick box exercise for us, it is something we hold dear because it will allow the business to have a more centralised strategy in effectively dealing with issues that affect our female employees. We are committed to creating an environment that is safe and empowers our female employees to have equal opportunities as their male counterparts," said Fullard.

Women in Mining Tripartite Forum Chairperson (WIMRTF), Jacqueline Dibetsoe applauded the organisation for the revival of the WIM structure and making it a strategic platform to employer women.

Keynote Speaker of the day, Glencore Ferroalloys CEO Japie Fullard.

Motivational Speaker of the day, Ms Molebogeng Mogashoa from TauSadi Mining and Engineering and Glencore representatives.

so toepaslik as moontlik te gebruik) "vleis aan die been het..." Corlia het ons bederf met sommer 'n groot bak vol van dié skaapkaiings en ons het haar "welkom-matjie" by die voordeur omtrent tot stof getrap voordat ons ons ry gekry het.

Daar is geen twyfel dat Corlia 'n meester in die kombuis is nie en hierdie is een van haar gunstelinge.

Nouja, probeer gerus die koninklike happie al is dit maar beskeie skaap – kan jy jou indink hoe vet- en oliebedrup prins Charles se bloedrooi Pommiebaadjie sou wees as hy die voorreg kon hê om aan so heerlike "skaaptjoppie" weg te val?

"Very Lekker Catering" se kraakbros skaapkaiings

Skaapkaiings

Heerlik saam met pap en sous, 'n egte smulhappie net so koud uit die yskas! En jy het nie eers 'n formele resep nodig nie.

Maak eenvoudig so:

Stel die oond op 180°. Sny skaaprib of/en lieslap in smal stukkies. Hoe meer vet aan die rib of skaaplies is, hoe beter!

(Spoel altyd alle vleis eers af in asynwater – gebruik 'n skottel water met 'n skeutjie bruin asyn by. Plaas vleis in vergiettes vir oortollige asynwater om af te drup.) Plaas repies vleis in oondpan.

Sprinkel suurlemoensap oor. Draai growwe sout en swart peper liggies oor. Nie te veel nie. Sprinkel Robertsons se Steak en Chops speserye oor. Nou vir die 'geheim' : sprinkel kwistig Robertsons se "Portuguese Chicken" oor, veral oor die vetgedeeltes. Plaas in die oond sonder bedekking. Sodra daar heelwat vet uitgebraai het, gooi die vet af en plaas terug in die oond.

Wanneer lekker bruin gebraai, gooi weer die olie af en draai elke stukkie vleis om. Herhaal speserye soos bo en plaas terug in die oond. Gooi weer vet af...

Proe of daar nog sout of Portuguese Chicken-speserye kort en voeg by indien nodig.

Onthou - moenie dat die kaiings brand nie, dit moet net lekker bros gebraai wees.

Die ander belangrike geheim van hierdie resep is om gedurig die olie af te gooie anders gaan jou skaapkaiings nie lekker bros braai nie.

Laat effens afkoel en geniet of bêre in yskas tot later en geniet warm of koud!

Hier is die skaapkaiings nog 'n bietjie aan die bleek kant – nog 'n rukkie in die oond en dit was reg.

Die drie geregte/happies wat Corlia oor die afgeloep drie weke se kuertjies by haar huis vir ons voorgeset het – van agter na voor is skaapkaiings waaraan ons vandag smul, die lekkerste pannekoekvulsel in Afrika en 'n eierroulade wat selfs jou skoonma sprakeloos sal laat.

Ja, jy het reg gekyk – hierdie is 'n happie waarvoor 'n man voorwaar jou hoed afhaal!

Cecile Volschenk en Corlia Vosloo van Very Lekker Catering toe Rustenburg Herald se kookspan onlangs by Corlia gaan uitspan het.

Corlia Vosloo – die baasbrein agter "Very Lekker Catering" met een van haar grootste gunstelinge – skaapkaiings!

Huge pothole in Molen Street not getting attention

The editor

The businesses in Molen street especially the Panelbeaters are suffering loss of business due to a pothole big enough to swallow a small car due to Rustenburg Local Municipality not fixing the water leak, since the end of last year.

The road carries a lot of heavy vehicles as it is the main road for them to the industrial area. The municipality also gave a scrap metal business permit to operate from next to panel beaters and more heavy lorries to stop on side walk. It is a muddy mess and the pothole is getting bigger. It's covering half the road and is a vehicle accident waiting to happen, very dangerous.

It was reported numerous times to the Councillor who even gave reference numbers in February and March but nothing happened. Now if it is reported, it is ignored. Please assist those businesses in that road, as drivers use different roads through East End now to avoid that water leaking pothole.

Why bother with continuing investigation, legal action?

With the onset of this year's winter, almost a full year has passed since South Africans have witnessed the release of former President Jacob Zuma from prison on the grounds of medical parole around this time last year. It is indeed with a forked tongue (or thoughts) that the question is raised - "what now".

While there have been talks of Zuma being re-arrested and returned to prison at some stage, it seems that the powers that we have since decided that it would indeed be in Zuma's (and the country's) best interest to let him escape justice once again. It wouldn't be the first time after all, would it? What it has boiled down to, is that the entire sentencing and brief incarceration of the former President was nothing more than a waste of breath, time and money and that it is highly improbable that anything is likely to come of it.

In South African it has become a sad phenomenon that high profile ANC members, politicians or government officials are indeed untouchable when it comes to the sharp end of the law.

The example of water running from the back of a duck instantly comes to mind. Some 28 years into our new democracy, South Africans have seen time and time again that the full might of the law is little more than an expression when elite politicians and their friends are concerned and that the law is exclusively reserved for ordinary citizens who regardless of the minor nature of their wrongdoings, cannot afford the excessive cost of legal advice. It goes without saying that people like Zuma and his comrades have made a mockery not only of our legal system, but also of the South African Constitution.

Today, almost 30 years after the country's liberation it takes no Einstein to predict that very few of this country's most foremost criminals will ever see a single day in court, let alone the inside of prison. Which brings us to the question: Why do we continue with excessively costly Commissions of Enquiry, lengthy investigations or court cases into the transgressions of Zuma and Company in efforts to get to the truth of the infamous arms scandal for instance? Why do we continue with never ending court proceedings only to be postponed ad infinitum? These proved to be merely an excessive waste of money and time that could have been utilised in more deserving causes such as the fate of flood-ridden victims of KwaZulu-Natal.

There is an age-old expression which goes: One doesn't have to pour the entire ocean down your throat to convince you that it is salty.

The truth is that far too many events in our recent history have clearly demonstrated that both the South African Constitution as well as our legal system are hopelessly toothless and hardly a deterrent. Unfortunately, these are all clear-cut examples of a banana republic.

Hoekom nog ondersoeke, hofsake?

Amper 'n jaar na die korrupte Jacob Zuma se "onwettige" vrylating uit die gevangenis nadat hy in alle waarskynlikheid sy aansoek om mediese parool "gekoop" het, wonder 'n mens nou wat nou?

Daar was aanvanklik sprake dat die agtergrond van Zuma se parool onregmatig was en dat dit ter syde gestel sou word. Sedert Zuma se volgelinge en ondersteuners egter die land aan die brand gesteek het, blyk dit of die owerhede nou konsensus bereik het dat parool inderdaad in Zuma en die land se beste belang was. So, nog 'n vonnis deur 'n adjunkhoofregter wat 'n mors van asem, tyd en geld was waarvan daar ongetwyfeld niks gaan kom nie.

Daar is dosyne ander voorbeeld wat in die afgelope tyd duidelik illustreer het dat ANC-hooggeplaasdes, hoëprofiel-politici en senior-regeringsamptenare inderdaad onaantastbaar is en dat die wet soos water op 'n eend se rug geen vastrapplek op hulle kan kry nie. Suid-Afrikaners het nou al tot vervelens toe gesien dat die wet en die toepassing daarvan slegs vir gewone landsburgers is wat benewens die geringe aard van hul oortredinge uiteraard nie die hemelhoe kistes van regshulp kan bekostig nie. Ook hierdie is 'n ondubbelzinnige voorbeeld van die onaantastbaarheid van die "elite" omdat mense soos Zuma vir jare lank op staatsgeld aanspraak kon maak om die regssposes eindeloos te frustreer en die land in die proses miljoene der miljoene gekos het.

Ons moet nie daarop te wys dat die blatante ignorering van ons land se wette 'n absolute vyfing van ons grondwet gemaak het nie. Ons voorspel vandag weer - mense soos Zuma, sy meelopers en vriende sal nooit 'n enkele dag (goed dan - beslis nie meer as twee maande nie) in die tronk deurbring nie totdat mediese parool of een of ander belangrike verskoning hul vrylating bekonkel nie.

Wat ons by die punt bring: Waarom nou nog verdere kostes aangaan, nimmereindigende ondersoeke loods, nog getuienis naspoor of hofsake met gereelde reëldaag uitstel om agter die kap van die byl rondom Zuma en sy mede-beskuldigdes se betrokkenheid by die berugte wapenkandaal te probeer kom? Almal weet tog - selfs al word Zuma en enige van sy medepligtiges op alle aanklage skuldig bevind, sal dit eenvoudig 'n mors van tyd wees om tronkstraf of enige ander "gepaste" straf op te lê? Misken sal dit werlik in Suid-Afrika (of gewone Suid-Afrikaners dan) se belang wees indien die vervolging van onaantastbares summiert gestaak word en die miljoene wat hierop verkwis word, liefs aangewend word vir meer verdienstelike sake soos noodverligting aan die mense van KwaZulu-Natal wat pas vir die tweede keer deur erg vloedskade letterlik deur die modder gesleep is.

Die algemene tandeloosheid van die Suid-Afrikaanse grondwet en die land se regstelsel is oor die afgelope dekade klinkbaar geillustreer - dit is ongelukkig die realiteit van die dag wat van Suid-Afrika 'n piesangrepubliek gemaak het.

Viewpoint by Waldie Volschenk, 13 Coetzer Street, Rustenburg.

Pryse hardloop weg met ons

Die redakteur,

Basisies in 'n week en 'n half se tyd het ek kennis geneem van die verhoogde tariewe van die Rustenburgse Munisipaliteit wat op 1 Julie in werkung tree. Ons het nog skaars herstel van die brandstofprys wat feitlik elke maand die hoogte inskiet en nou dit. 'n Mens kan verstaan dat munisipale tariewe een keer per jaar verhoog word, maar 'n styging, en dikwels dramaties, in die brandstofprys wat nou al 'n maandelikse verskynsel geword het is darem bietjie dik vir 'n daalder.

Terwyl ons die afgelope tyd so herhaaldelik gehoor het van ministers en regeringsamptenare wat met reuse bedrae in korupsiegeld weggekom het, kan die regering nie maar die verbruiker tegemoet probeer kom deur weer soos in die verlede die brandstofprys te subsidieer nie.

Dit sal die stygende lewenskoste vir gewone verbruikers darem bietjie in toom hou en ons in staat stel om 'n bietjie geriefliker oor die weg te kom.

Arm bejaarde.

Nuwe waardasierol allermins 'n verbetering

Die redakteur

Ek sien in die Herald se berig oor die nuwe munisipale begroting in die uitgawe van verlede week is daar melding gemaak van die omstrede Rustenburgse Waardasierol wat uiteraard teen nie-markverwante pryse aangepas is en wat die beginsel vorm waarop 'n grond- of huiseienaar se grondbelasting bereken word. Ek is een van skynbaar slegs 'n handjevol eienaars wat teen my nuwe waardasier beswaar aangeteken het en selfs 'n alternatiewe waardasier deur 'n privaat-waardeerdeerder ingedien het.

Die ekstra uitgawe het my egter niets in die sak gebring nie aangesien die munisipaliteit my beswaar van die hand gewys het.

Daarna het ek gewag dat die spertyd vir die aantekening van appéls verleng word, maar dit is ongelukkig die realiteit van die dag wat van die hand gewys is.

Hoe hou 'n mens by met sulke geslepe owerhede?

Brandarm Sakeman

NEW MUNICIPAL BUDGET:

Life getting more and more expensive

The editor

Now that the new proposed budget from the Rustenburg Local Municipality is out, I wonder what is going on in the minds of residents who can look forward to paying more on Municipal Tariffs. The 2022/23 budget was published recently and it does not hold good news for consumers as they will have to dig even deeper into their pockets than before. It seems like everything is going up in South Africa, the cost of living is becoming higher and higher. The petrol price is visioned to increase in a week's time, the price of cooking oil is skyrocketing as a result of the war between Russia and Ukraine. Couldn't the municipality consider those who are struggling to make ends meet before they tabled their budget. I am wondering why members of the community are not refusing to accept the new proposed budget, which according to the Municipality will be implemented on 1 July 2022.

Struggling resident of Rustenburg

RUSTENBURG HERALD - RUSTENBURG - Buffelsdrift, a bushveld haven for mountain bikers. Farm roads, cattle paths, dual tracks and strategically designed single track for mountain bikers make this the perfect venue for The King Price Trailseeker #3 Buffelsdrift MTB Race. Rustenburg Cycling Club is very proud of their members who participated over the weekend. Due to the mud the track was shortened from 70km to 43km.

Congratulations!

Congratulations to Dirk Harmse, Zelia Harmse and Johan van der Walt on completing the Oxpecker, 2 day trail run over 35km.
