Queen of Africa continues on giving

BONUS - RUSTENBURG - Naledi Ramaboea, Queen of Africa 2020, visited the Tirelong Secondary School in Kroondal, the Makweleng Primary School and the Moubana Motsei Intermediate School during the July month, to donate Dignity Dreams washable Packs to girls.

The packs consist of a drawstring bag, 6 washable pads, two panties, Ziploc bag and instruction pamphlet.

The pads will last the girls for a period of four to five years with proper care. This is a sustainable solution to keep girls in school during their menstrual cycles and reduce absenteeism.

Boitshoko Naledi Ramaboea Foundation and Alina Motene's Princess and Queen Project has been supplying girls and women in less fortunate families with these washable pads in Rustenburg and the Moses Kotane since 2018 to the current date.

"It warms my heart to know that all young women that have received the washable pads will now start to embrace the beauty of their womanhood without shame but with dignity," Naledi Ramaboea said.

Together we will create change

At Impala we are clear: violence against anyone is an abhorrent crime that demands a clear response.

We especially highlight the rising numbers of women and child abuse during Women’s Month. Only by working together can we change this.

STOP THE SILENCE – End the violence and hurt

- If you witness behaviour that you believe is violent or abusive, call the police anonymously or tell a community leader.
- Educate yourself and inform other people about women abuse.
- Listen to, and believe, women who confide in you – ask her how you can help and what she needs to feel safer.
- Don’t pressure or ask blaming questions to an abused woman.
- Respect that any information an abused woman gives you is confidential.
- Support the survivor in all ways possible but listen to what they want. Reporting anything needs their consent.
- Support the right of all women to live in safety.

The “Stop Killing Cyclist” protest is slowly but surely gaining momentum across the country. Far too many cyclists are being killed by careless and reckless drivers, the organisation’s Chairman says.

Stop Killing Cyclists gains momentum...

BONUS - RUSTENBURG - The Pedal Power Association, one of South Africa’s largest cycling organisations, supports the actions of the group known as ‘Stop Killing Cyclists SA Org’, which staged a silent protest outside the Randburg Magistrate’s Court on Wednesday 29 July, in protest against the senseless deaths of cyclists on South African roads.

A driver, who allegedly struck and killed a cyclist on the pavement of Uranium Road in Fourways, Johannesburg, on 11 June, dragging him some 30 meter down the road, was granted bail of R8 000 in the Randburg Magistrate’s Court on 15 June. On Wednesday 29 July Ishe Davani briefly appeared in court again. The case was postponed until 30 October for further investigation. The cyclist, 37-year-old Steve Preston, an IT executive from Johannesburg, died while trapped under the man’s BMW.

According to Sean Badenhorst from Tread Mountain Biking, Preston’s family was fragile during the court procedure but encouraged by the magistrate’s attitude towards the case. Dawn Burnett, a founder member of ‘Stop Killing Cyclists SA Org’, who lost her life partner in a cycling crash, said that the organisation felt that they had to protest against the lack of respect for the lives of cyclists lost on our roads. Burnett said that the taxi driver who allegedly caused the accident in which tandem duo, Frans Duys and Janine Hopkins were killed in November 2019 in Isando, has still not been charged.

Chairman of the Pedal Power Association, Steve Hayward commented that cases like these required proper investigation and harsher sentencing. “Cyclists are children, husbands, wives, brothers, sisters, mothers and fathers to their families, friends and ordinary people.”

Let’s go racing - green light for SACCS to kick up the dust again!

BONUS - RUSTENBURG - With spring approaching and after five months of no racing due to the Covid-19 world pandemic, the South African National Cross Country Series (SACCS) received the green light from Motorsport South Africa (MSA) to restart the 2020 championship in August.

This means the Bronkhorstspuit 400 will take place on Friday and Saturday, 14 and 15 August. The SACCS championship will comprises five events to be hosted between August and October. The championship which started with the Mpumalanga 400 in Dullstroom in February will include the Bronkhorstspuit 400, the Nampo 400 on 18 and 19 September with the final two rounds to be hosted in Parys on 23, 24 and 25 October.

Strict Covid-19 regulations are in place for the Bronkhorstspuit 400 to be run from the Soetdoring Function Venue just outside Bronkhorstspuit on the brink of the Gauteng border. The patience and compliance of competitors, crews and officials will be rewarded by the fact that the 2020 Cross Country Championship can continue, even though things will be done somewhat different to the past. SACCS has kept abreast with the times and technology over the years with race administration mainly being done electronically for some time now. To limit personal as well as surface contact and maximise social distancing, the Safety Plan and rules and regulations for the event include various changes, one of which is no spectators will be allowed at the event. Enthusiasts and supporters will only be able to follow the event via various social media platforms which include Facebook, Telegram, Instagram and RallySafe.

The Bronkhorstspuit 400 can be followed on the RallySafe App on 14 and 15 August. The App can be downloaded free of charge from the App Store or Google Play Store. Information will also be shared on the SACCS Telegram App as well as on Facebook SACCS.
