A new era for SPCA

Women are not only increasingly noted as excellent managers or business executives, but are respected all over the world as first class organisers. After a period of turmoil and uncertainty, the Rustenburg SPCA is set for a brighter future with the inception of a brand new and all-ladies executive. Pictured from left at one of their first meetings late last week, are Suenell van der Walt (committee member), Venessa Herridge (Treasurer), Nastaschia Eloff (Chair), Debbie du Toit (Vice-chair), Marisa Kruger (Manager) and Charnelle de Beer (Secretary).

Books, magazines via message a crime

BONUS - RUSTENBURG - The thing you share on Whatsapp or Telegram - or any cyber forum for that matter - can land you in jail from now on.

And if your service provider does not report you, they are in for a very hefty fine.

Last week the Cybercrimes Act was signed into law, introducing new laws that criminalize the sending of certain types of messages on social media in South Africa.

Penalties for sending such messages include imprisonment and/or a fine.

These messages include

- * sharing copyrighted material - such as books and magazines

- * sharing intimate images of a person without the person's consent

- * messages sent with the purpose to threaten or to commit fraud

- * message sent with the purpose to incite damage to property or violence, or threaten people with damage to property or violence.

But it is not just messages that can get you into deep trouble. The illegal download of movies and television series has always been a crime; now your service provider must inform the authorities that you are using them to commit these type of crimes, otherwise they will be prosecuted.

In addition to defining specific cybercrimes, the Act also places several obligations on companies such as network operators, Internet service providers, and financial institutions. The Act stipulates that electronic communications service providers and financial institutions must report, without undue delay and where feasible, cyber offences within 72 hours of becoming aware of them. If they fail to do so it may lead to a fine of up to R50,000. These companies are also obligated to help in the investigation of cybercrimes.

Eskom terminally ill; Stage 5 now a reality

BONUS - RUSTENBURG - We should all brace ourselves for a lot more darkness. South Africa, predict those in the know, is in for some severe load-shedding later this month.

It is said that Eskom plans to take six generating units at its ageing coal power plants offline for planned maintenance; these outages coupled with unexpected breakdowns could result in supply capacity shortages that will require stage 4 - or even stage 5 load-shedding - to be implemented.

This means that South Africans can expect double the frequency of stage 2 load-shedding, with two hours of load-shedding 12 times over a four day period.

Stage 5 load-shedding will see 5,000MW being shed, which means households will effectively suffer around 7.5 hours of load-shedding per day.

Eskom has in recent days suffered numerous unexpected breakdowns at several power plants, while electricity demand in the country has simultaneously risen due to colder weather.

Leadership conducts inspection of projects

BONUS - RUSTENBURG - The Executive Mayor of Rustenburg Local Municipality Cllr Mpho Khunou led a physical inspection of projects that are meant to accelerate service delivery within the city on Friday (4 June).

He was accompanied by the Speaker of the Rustenburg Local Municipality Cllr Sheila Mabale-Huma, the MMC for Budget and Treasury Cllr Basebi Lekoro, the MMC for Corporate Support Services Cllr Joyce Mashishi-Ntsime, MMC for Technical and Infrastructure Cllr Michael Mhlungu, MMC for Community Development Cllr Nombulelo Xatasi, the acting Municipal Manager Mr. Edward Komane, Directors and RLM officials. The visit commenced in the Rustenburg CBD and proceeded to Protea Park, Cashan and Tlhabane respectively.

In Tlhabane and Cashan the contractor was doing the work on the AC replacement changing the current asbestos pipes to UPVC plastic pipes. The work will assist the municipality to minimize pressure and reduce the number of pipe bursts together with water leaks that are occurring in Tlhabane. In Protea Bo-Dorp the contractor was also on site doing the changeover and moving the system from AC asbestos pipe to the new plastic pipes. The contractor is expected to complete all the projects by the end of June 2021.

Concern raised over rising cases in NW

BONUS - RUSTENBURG - The MEC for North West Health, Madoda Sambatha has raised concerns over the increase of daily Covid-19 positive cases across the province.

The North West province has been experiencing the spike in Covid-19 cases in the past seven days with an average of 300 cases reported daily.

"The North West province is currently experiencing a serious spike in coronavirus cases since last week, an average of 300 cases per day is a huge sign of concern for our province," said MEC Madoda Sambatha.

Since the beginning of June, the province has been recording over 400 cases daily and Bojanala and Dr Kenneth Kaunda districts have been hard-hit by the recent resurgence of positive cases.

These recent developments do not augur well for the provincial health system.

BONUS - RUSTENBURG - When the 2021 South African National Cross Country Series (SACCs) moves to the Upington area in the Northern Cape Province for the Toyota Gazoo Racing SA (TGRSA) 1000 Desert Race Upington, the third round of the series that takes place over three days on 18, 19 and 20 June, with a race route of about a thousand kilometres that ventures into uncharted terrain and a level playing field awaits all.

With the traditional Toyota Botswana 1000 Desert Race that had to be postponed for a second consecutive year due to the global Covid-19 pandemic, the Toyota Gazoo Racing SA (TGRSA) 1000 Desert Race Upington will not only be the replacement event for the 2021 season, but this marathon event will also include the Road To Dakar Challenge.

The winning entry for the Road to Dakar Challenge, will win a free entry to participate in the Dakar Rally in Saudi Arabia during January 2022. Toyota has been the sponsor of the only marathon event on the SACCs calendar since 1993 with Toyota Gazoo Racing SA stepping in to ensure a marathon event for 2021. And although no borders will be crossed for this year's event and Botswana enthusiasts having to wait another year to spectate at their beloved event, SACCs teams, sponsors and supporters are looking forward to explore new terrain in the Northern Cape Province.

The route will comprise of two loops and will offer varied terrain including sand and small dunes as well as tight and technical sections and hard-pack areas. The Pirelli Qualifying Race will kick-start the activities on Friday, 18 June.

Competitors will take on the 130 kilometres section at 12:00 from the Upington Expo Showgrounds and will venture into a section to the north of the town that includes mini dunes.

The loop will take them back to the finish at the showgrounds. The results of the Pirelli Qualifying Race will determine the starting order for the race on Saturday. On Saturday morning, 19 June a 200km loop awaits competitors with the first team departing at 08:00.

This loop will also start and finish at the Expo Showgrounds where all teams will stop for a compulsory 30 minute de-control before taking on the same loop again for a total race distance of 400 kilometres for the day.

The combined results of the Pirelli Qualifying Race on Friday as well as the 400km race distance on Saturday will determine the starting order for the final racing section on Sunday with the first team departing the Expo Showgrounds at 08:00 on the riverbeds loop.

The distance will again be approximately 200 kilometres and will include a 70 kilometre mini dune and sandy section at the start of the loop that will be a unique experience for many. From here they will head out to the riverbed area that differs vastly from the dune section.

Teams will encounter numerous dry riverbeds and rocky sections as well as hard-pack terrain and tracks with the finish of the loop at the Expo Showgrounds where they will again have to stop for a compulsory 30 minute de-control before heading out to take on the loop again. The final chequered flag will be waved at the finish at the Upington Expo Showgrounds for competitors who will then have completed a total race distance of approximately 910 kilometres. No spectators are allowed at the Race Headquarters according to Covid-19 Regulations. Enthusiasts will be able to follow the action on the RallySafe App, sponsored by Toyota, that can be downloaded free of charge from the Google Play Store or the App Store.
