Attempted murder suspect to re-appear in court

BONUS - RUSTENBURG - Mpho William "Seun" Modirapula (24), was expected to make a second appearance in the Rustenburg Magistrates' Court on Monday (13 June) for attempted murder.

The accused was arrested on Sunday (5 June), in Mokolokwe Village, Bethanie, outside of Rustenburg.

He was arrested for the attempted murder of a 42-year-old woman in Lekgalong Village in the policing precinct of Marikana.

According to information received from Brigadier Sabata Mokgwabone, North West police spokesperson, it is alleged that the accused forcefully gained entrance into the woman's residence in the early hours of Thursday (2 June), then hit her with a spade. The severely injured woman managed to fight back and the accused ran away. The incident was ultimately reported to the police leading to the arrest of the accused three days later. He was remanded in custody upon first appearance on Tuesday (7 June).

Preliminary investigations revealed that the accused has two pending rape cases allegedly committed in December 2017 and December 2021 in Mooi-nooi and Pretoria respectively. Investigation into the matter continues.

What's going on with SRD grants?

BONUS - RUSTENBURG - Social Development and SASSA must play open cards with recipients of the R350 SRD grant.

This is the plea of Bridget Masango, Democratic Alliance Shadow Minister of Social Development.

Masango said that the Department of Social Development and the South African Social Security Agency (SASSA) have to communicate properly and effectively with beneficiaries of the Social Relief of Distress (SRD) grant.

The recipients haven't been paid for two months. She added that she is of opinion that beneficiaries must also receive back pay for the months they did not receive their grants.

"It seems that the Minister of Social Development, Lindiwe Zulu, and the SASSA CEO, Busisiwe Memela-Khambula, truly have no empathy for the poorest of the poor in South Africa. Children are literally starving – 1009 children have died due to malnutrition in the past year. And those numbers only indicate the children who were hospitalised. How many more children have starved? How many adults are currently starving without any hope of providing food for their families?" Masango said in a statement.

She added that, while the R350 grant is too little, it means the world for South Africa's poorest and most vulnerable. "DSD and SASSA must stop playing with people's lives. It is time SRD grant beneficiaries received a definite date of payment. Without the grant many people won't have access to sufficient food and water as mandated by Section 27(1)(b) of the Constitution. All South Africans deserve to live with dignity," Masango concluded.

SCAM ALERT!

Beware of latest scam: Post Office

BONUS - RUSTENBURG - The South African Post Office (Sapo) has warned customers about a new scam designed to mislead members of the public to pay money into a fraudulent account and share details of their credit card.

"The emails and SMS messages appear to originate from the post office when in fact they have no connection with the post office," Sapo said on Friday.

Clicking on the link in the message leads the user to a payment page where they are asked to deposit money into an account to 'release' a package. In several instances a form is included asking for the card number and the CVV number on the back.

"The combination of the card number and CVV number are required for online purchases. If you share these details with the scammer, they may be able to use your account to its credit limit," the post office said.

The post office has advised customers to note the following characteristics on emails and messages to confirm if the communication sent is legitimate. The post office never asks for import duties or clearance fees in advance. If there are customs fees payable on a parcel from abroad, the client pays the fees when they collect the parcel from the post office counter or when delivered by a post office driver. Any information about postal crimes, can be reported to the post office's toll-free crime buster hotline on 0800 020 070.

Mercedes-Benz SA recalls 13 159 vehicles

BONUS - RUSTENBURG - The National Consumer Commission (NCC) has urged consumers who are in possession of Mercedes-Benz ML, GL, (model series 164) and R-Class (model series 251) to stop driving these vehicles and contact Mercedes-Benz for further assistance.

Mercedes-Benz South Africa says the global recall of these models was initiated due to a possible brake failure caused by advances corrosion on the housing joining points. These are about 13 159 affected vehicles in South Africa. The Acting National Consumer Commission Ms Thezi Mabuza said the supplier informed the Commission of this recall following a global recall by the manufacturer.

"We understand that the defect may lead to a possible brake failure which may lead to accidents and injuries. The affected models were manufactured between 2006 and 2019. We urge consumers not to drive these vehicles but contact the manufacturer for more details," said Mabuza.

To confirm the affected VIN Numbers, consumers are advised to contact Mercedes-Benz South Africa call centre number: 0800 133 355. The Commission is monitoring this recall based on its Recall Guidelines.

Triple J Q4 will change your world

BONUS - RUSTENBURG - Can you imagine that the opening of a brand new filling station in a aging residential environment has changed the business environment in this area indefinitely?

During the past three weeks Bonus and Rustenburg Herald have repeatedly reflected on the opening of Triple J Q4 Fuel that has opened on the corner of Oliver Tambo and Tuin Street Rustenburg on Friday, 3 June. In addition to all the usual “drive through” services offered by a filling station, Triple J Q4 also has the convenience of an OK Express 24 hour convenience store on premises. In just over two weeks, the addition of our filling station has changed the business environment in our area for the better. Almost overnight the area is becoming a hub of leisure and business activity with the Rustenburg Impala Rugby Club bordering Triple J Q4’s southern perimeters. To a large extent the opening of Triple J Q4 has linked the immediate, predominantly residential area to the town’s traditional central business district barely 600 meters to the west. Already, we have seen motorists flocking to Triple J Q4 and our OK Express outlet is particularly well supported. It is obvious that services of a filling station and a convenience store in this area has been long overdue. To those who have not yet visited our new garage and enjoyed what it can offer, remember there is an open invitation. No need to drive out to new far-off areas for what really should be no more than an in an out exercise”, says Jacques Swart, well-known motorsport guru and owner of Triple J Q4. “We are pleased to offer our services wherein we strive for the best in an all in one attractive package with the customer’s needs at the top of our priorities. Please take the effort and drive in for a meet and greet with our team where you can look forward to the service your deserve. Please come an acquaint yourself with our brand new Q4 Fuel brand and experience why this new brand is rapidly growing to be a new favourite among the motoring public”, Swart concludes” - “remember - we are here for you!”

Bafana Bafana
lose to Morocco
in AFCON qualifier

The match took place in Rabat, with South Africa taking the lead only for the Morocco team to level up and score the leading goal in the second half. South Africa will be back in action in September when they take on Liberia.

URC final: An all SA affair

Although there was one point in it at the end, the Bulls led 27-19 after the hooter sounded and a late Irish try was irrelevant at the point. It was only the 22nd time in 225 PRO14 and URC home matches that Leinster suffered a defeat, underlining what a significant achievement it was by Jake White's team. The former Bok coach has put together a group of rising stars, worker bees and experienced campaigners - and conjured a team of high quality and skill. On Saturday (11 June), the Stormers secured a dramatic, late 17-15 win over Belfast's Ulster at a raucous DHL Stadium in Cape Town. Ulster led 15-10 at the break after the Stormers raced into an early 10-0 lead with tries from hooker JJ Kotze and No 8 Evan Roos for the home team. The Stormers struggled to break down the Ulster defence and lost

The not-to-be-missed all-South African blockbuster will kick off on Saturday (18 June) at 19:30.
