Klerksdorp Midweek, Klerksdorp - The North West Department of Cooperative Governance and Traditional Affairs will rely on a new IT system to track the performance of municipalities in the province.

This, says Dineo Thapelo, is not spying. "It will be an early warning-oriented system that will allow rapid response interventions in municipalities.

"The system will ensure early detection of poor performance of municipalities," she said.

The deployment of technology is part of rolling out the implementation of the Local Government Turn-around Strategy which was pronounced by MEC for Cooperative Governance, Human Settlements and Traditional Affairs, Nono Maloyi in the 2023/2024 Budget Speech.

MEC Nono Maloyi said the software system will have access to governance systems of municipalities in real time, thus ensuring that interventions are not after things fall apart but before they happen.

The turnaround strategy will also include conducting skills audit for all municipal officials.

The process will include identifying skills gaps and relevant training for municipal officials.

For a start, the skills audit will be conducted in the following municipalities: Madibeng, Kgetlengrivier, Tswaing, Ditsobotla, Naledi, Ramotshere Moiloa, Maquassi Hills and Ngaka Modiri Molema district municipality before being rolled out to other municipalities.

The local government turn-around strategy which will be implemented for the next three years, will also involve the deployment of experts in various fields such as governance, engineering, finance, town planning and information technology in municipalities for hands on support and on the job skills transfer.

Draft a will at no cost

Klerksdorp Midweek, Klerksdorp - It is Wills Week in South Africa and Legal Aid SA is encouraging South Africans to use wills week to their advantage and ensure that they draft their will at no cost.

National wills week lasts until September 15. With a will, you are leaving a lasting legacy for your loved ones that saves lives long into the future.

Having a will minimizes the chances of your family fighting over your estate when you die. It will clearly state who gets what, which will protect your estate from anyone you do not want to benefit from your assets or belongings. A will also allow you to make an informed decision on who will look after your minor children in the event of your passing.

If you passed on without a will (Intestate), the court will take over your estate. Your assets will be divided according to the Intestate Succession Law of the country.

Your accounts will be frozen. Aside from being a hassle, this will be an inconvenience to your immediate family, this will also cost your estate thousands of Rands in expenses, in addition to administration costs, as the Master of the High Court must appoint an Executor who will take care of the administration of the estate. With a Will, you have the right to appoint your preferred Executor and no cost is involved. If you draw up a will you can also include a clause stating where and how you should be buried, or cremated. You can state your preference in your will to eliminate any confusion.

Drawing up a will gives you peace of mind, especially if you need to leave a legacy for your children and your loved ones. You will also rest in peace knowing that you left things in an orderly manner to avoid unnecessary confusion. A Will can ensure that your estate, no matter what size it is, will be administered in a proper and efficient manner, without stress. Having a proper will drawn up and kept in a safe place is very important.

Visit a Legal Aid South Africa office near you during National Wills Week, from September 11-15, to have a basic will drafted, for free.

Call the toll-free Legal Aid Advice Line on 0800 110 110 or send a Please Call Me to 079 835 7179 to receive legal advice on wills, at no cost.

SANBS needs your blood

Klerksdorp Midweek, Klerksdorp - SANBS is going all out to collect blood before the October school holiday.

They will have a blood donor clinic on September 21 at the Laerskool Goudkop Family Week.

The primary school will be having a family week where they will be raising funds for PA Theron Primary in Stilfontein.

SANBS will also be part of the stakeholders assisting Goudkop to reach their goal by inviting donors to come and donate blood on the day, with a target of 150 units to reach.

On September 30, Overvaal Stereo will be broadcasting live from the donor centre at Flamwood Walk. SANBS will be doing "Jail A Bird", whereby one of the presenters will be "jailed" and the radio listeners would then be the ones that need to present at the Donor Centre, to free the jailed presenter as a form of donating blood. The target for the day is 200 units.

Renew your vehicle licence on time

Klerksdorp Midweek, Klerksdorp

- With more than a million motor vehicle licences set to expire this month, the Road Traffic Management Corporation (RTMC) reminds motor vehicle owners to take proactive steps to renew and avoid penalties.

The RTMC is sending out email and SMS reminders to owners whose motor vehicle licences are expiring every month.

Vehicle owners are encouraged to update their email and telephone contact details at online. natis.gov.za to receive the reminders.

"Owners can renew on the same portal and have their motor vehicle licences delivered within three to five days. Numerous extensions, to the motor vehicle licence expiry date that were granted during the Covid 19 period have resulted in a high number of renewals falling within the months of August, September, October, November and December.

"As a result, a total of 1 049 412 motor vehicle licences are expiring this month (September) and must be renewed by the end of the month. However, there is a 21-day grace period after the expiry date to renew without additional costs.

"Thereafter arrears and penalties for late renewal will be changed," said Simon Zwane: Chief Communication Officer.

To assist vehicle owners, the RTMC is sending out email reminders with MVL1 forms. To avoid queues and time wasting, owners can complete the form online and make the necessary payment at the convenience of their homes.

A new motor vehicle licence will then be sent by courier within three to five days. To take advantage of this convenient and cost-effective method of renewal, vehicle owners are encouraged to register their profiles at online. natis.gov.za in five easy steps. Those who have registered already can login and finalise the renewal in less than 10 minutes.

Get the full Rugby World Cup experience

Klerksdorp Midweek, Klerksdorp - Checkers is going all in to ensure South African consumers have the ultimate Rugby World Cup experience on local soil - just light the fire and Checkers will do the rest.

This includes making sure that there are enough beer glasses to serve 56 000 litres of beer and enough braai roasters for 300 000 tjoppies.

Despite rapidly selling out of thousands of Springbok shirts due to unprecedented demand, customers can still proudly show their support with Springbok branded aprons, braai gloves, cooler bags, socks, braai tongs, camping chairs, and more.

And if you're looking for something truly South African to indulge in while watching the rugger, the newly crowned 2023 Championship Boerewors by chef Tyron Adams' has hit the shelves of Shoprite and Checkers supermarkets nationwide at only R89,99 per kilogram, just in time for the World Cup.

Should all this still not make your heart beat green and gold, Checkers Sixty60 will "bring it home" in newly rebranded bike load boxes in a salute to the Springbok rugby jersey and the South African flag, ensuring that each delivery comes wrapped in national pride.

Every week one lucky Checkers Sixty60 shopper will also win R1 million!

Xtra Savings card holders who spend more than R350 when ordering through the Sixty60 app, will receive a scratch card in their delivery bag with a potentially life-changing unique code. The weekly grand prize winner will be revealed at half time on SuperSport, during specified Rugby World Cup games. Several instant prizes are also on offer, like Jan Braai basting sauce, Rhodes Braai Relish, and various snacks and supplies.

The country's most beloved grocery delivery service has also produced a message of hope in support of the Springboks as they take on the battle to "bring it home".

Take a moment and listen to the voices of over 1 000 South Africans - comprised of choral choirs, aspiring singers and musicians from all walks of life - proudly singing our country's national anthem.

"Checkers has gone all out to ensure our customers can get into the spirit during this year's Rugby World Cup tournament.

"Whether you show patriotism by wearing a pair of Springbok socks, throwing a braai with your friends, or waving at a Sixty60 bike bearing the South African flag, we want everyone to feel the spirit. Checkers is behind our boys to bring it home again this year," says Willem Hunlun, Chief Operating Officer of Checkers.

The true story of 'King Richard'

Serena Williams' father Richard Williams openly admits in the new documentary, On The Line: The Richard Williams Story that he didn't expect to be alive by 2023. The doccie focuses on his life before his daughters, Serena and Venus, achieved tennis greatness.

This documentary which had its Tribeca Film Festival premiere in 2022, continues to receive glowing reviews.

It can be seen on M-Net on Sundays at 18:00.

It is packed up with nerve-racking, never-before-heard interviews from the 1980s.

Richard recounts his journey from the impoverished Shreveport, Louisiana, streets to Wimbledon's famous grass courts.

His unyielding struggle against institutionalised tyranny and racial brutality is portrayed in the movie, which challenges tennis' long-standing conventions and irrevocably changes the game. Through archival video, the documentary provides a window into Richard's life.

In an effort to succeed financially through them and to live through them, Richard thinks back on the years he spent mentoring his daughters.

This is the second film released focusing on the Williams' family.

In 2021, King Richard thrilled tennis fans.

It was a re-enactment of Venus and Serena Williams childhood journey in tennis. It depicts how their father Richard Williams shaped his daughters into becoming powerful tennis icons years later.

LEGAL CORNER

Danger of not doing your financial homework

Klerksdorp Midweek, Klerksdorp - Do your homework before you agree to anything when buying property. Look before you leap.

Law firm Meyer, Van Sittert and Kropman advises...

It's not just a matter of buying the right property at the right price – make sure that your finances (and particularly your cash flow situation) won't stop you from fulfilling the financial obligations your signature on the sale agreement binds you to. Otherwise, you could find yourself in the same unenviable position as the property buyer recently ordered by the High Court to pay substantial damages after she couldn't pay the required deposits.

Three sales, and the seller claims damages... A trust sold a property to a buyer for R750 000.

The buyer failed to pay the two required deposits totalling R280 000, the trust cancelled the sale and put the property up for resale. It resold the property for R500 000 and sued the buyer for its R250 000 loss on the sale, plus the estate agent's commission of R22 500 it paid for the new sale. The buyer fought the claim on a variety of grounds, none of which found favour with the Court. It ordered the buyer to pay, in addition to legal costs on an attorney and client scale, a total in damages of R235 875.

That's a figure seemingly arrived at by the Court by taking into account an amount of R40 000 already paid in by the buyer, which presumably leaves the buyer down a total of just under R280k plus two sets of legal costs.

Buyers: Before you sign...

Of course, the big lesson here for buyers is to make sure they can comply with the terms of the sale agreement they sign, with particular emphasis on their ability to make payments as and when due.

And sellers: Before you sign...

Sellers on the other hand will want to avoid all the risk, delay and cost that the trust in this case was put to by investigating upfront the financial position of all potential buyers before accepting any offer. Make sure also that the terms of your sale agreement protect you adequately in the event of any default by the buyer.

Seller: Mitigate your damages

The law requires that if you want to sue for losses you incur as a result of someone else's breach of contract (or wrongdoing), you must first take reasonable steps to minimise your losses.

As the Court put it:

"... the mitigating rule is a rule where a breach of contract has occurred. The innocent party cannot merely sit back and allow their losses to accumulate; the party must take reasonable positive steps to prevent the occurrence or accumulation of losses.

The rule does not require the innocent party to do anything more than a reasonable person could do under the same circumstances. Reasonable expenses incurred in carrying out the mitigation steps may be claimed as additional damage suffered. The onus of proving what steps could reasonably have been taken, or that the expenses incurred were unreasonable, rests on the party in breach." (Emphasis added)

As the seller, therefore, be sure to actively seek alternative buyers, use professionals to assist only as reasonably necessary, and accept only a reasonable resale price. In this case the evidence had established that the trust had acted reasonably both in reselling the property at the price it did, and in using the services of an estate agent to do so.
